

The NSW Branch of the Public Health Association and the Peoples Health Movement, Australia invite you to attend the launch of

Global Health Watch 2: An Alternative World Health Report

In an increasingly integrated and globalised world characterized by, among other things, new cross-border threats to health, widening disparities in health and access to health care and an unacceptable level of human suffering and premature mortality in developing countries, civil society actors are asking 'why is so little progress being made'?

Like its critically-acclaimed predecessor, Global Health Watch 2 covers a comprehensive range of health topics, including access to medicines, mental health, water and sanitation, nutrition, and war and conflict.

Venue: Police & Justice Museum, cnr Phillip & Albert St, Circular Quay, Sydney.

Date: Friday 21 November 2008

Time: 15.30 for a 16.00 start and a 17.00 close
Tea/coffee and snacks available on arrival.

Speakers:

Dr Liliana Jadue is the Director of the Instituto de Epidemiología y Políticas de Salud Pública at the Clinica Alemana-Universidad del Desarrollo, Chile. Her team is working for the WHO Commission of Social Health Determinants to run the Measurement Knowledge Network, leading the development of methodologies and tools for measuring the causes, pathways and health outcomes of policy interventions to tackle the social determinants of health and health inequities. Liliana has worked for the Pan-American Health Organization (PAHO) as an epidemiologist and health promotion consultant.

Professor Anthony Zwi focuses on international health and policy and has interests in their interface with equity, social justice and human rights. He seeks to build Australia and Asia-Pacific partnerships and capabilities in public health, health policy, and disaster planning, management and response. He is interested in understanding, and improving mechanisms, to facilitate evidence-informed health and development policy.
