

The National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Nutrition Strategy and Action Plan Steering Committee and the Public Health Association of Australia invite you to attend

The Way Forward for Indigenous Health: A Focus on Food and Nutrition

Canberra. April 22nd, 2010.
8.30am – 4.00pm

The symposium will highlight how investing in nutrition initiatives in Indigenous communities can make a difference to health status. There will be a focus on evidence-based initiatives in maternal and child nutrition, remote food security, and urban and regional food security. The day will consist of keynote speakers and panel discussions and will be facilitated by Dr Norman Swan.

Venue: Hotel Realm, 18 National Circuit, Barton ACT 2600.

Cost: Registration is $70.00, to be paid to the Public Health Association of Australia www.phaa.net.au

Participants may apply to submit a poster highlighting their evidence-based nutrition work for viewing during the breaks.

If you would like to submit a poster abstract or have any general queries, please contact Katherine Cullerton at katherine.cullerton@heartfoundation.org.au

Who should attend

This symposium is specifically designed for representatives from:

- Indigenous Health Services
- Community Health Services
- Federal, State and local government
- Research Institutions

With responsibility for Indigenous

- Health
- Education
- Housing
- Policy

Keynote speakers include:

Prof Sandra Eades
Dympna Leonard
Dr Julie Brimblecombe
Dr Cate Burns
Dr Karen Adams